ultimate Hogwarts contest winners

We recently challenged our LEGO Club members to design their own versions of the Ultimate LEGO Hogwarts™ Castle - and, boy, did they conjure up some incredible creations! ■

Presenting the Winners
- as selected by our esteemed panel of judges!

Rupert Grint
(Ron Weasley™)

Daniel Radcliffe
(Harry Potter™)

Emma Watson
(Hermione Granger™)

Harry Potter

First Prize

Branda Brooks, Wisconsin

"This was a fun model. I loved the detail that was included. The model really came alive for me when I saw all the characters in place. This was the complete model of Hogwarts. Congratulations!"

- Daniel Radcliffe

First Prize

Drew & Ryan Bradshaw, Georgia

"I loved this for showing the Quidditch™ pitch, train and layout - it gave a real sense of scale. Hogwarts here felt very close to how it's portrayed in the films."

- Emma Watson

Grand Prize Todd Dillard, Florida

"This stood out for me as it felt like Hogwarts was a really solid, grand castle - exactly as it's meant to be. I also loved the detail in the Defense Against the Dark Arts classroom, especially the addition of the office at the front."

- Rupert Grint

Great Work, LEGO Builders. Professor Dumbledore would be proud!

BETTER BUILDING MORE FUN

- Over 3000 different LEGO® brick shapes!
- More than 75 creative colors!
- Easy-to-follow building steps!
- Idea books packed with lots of extra model plans!
- Unique LEGO stud design provides extra "clutch power" to hold models together better!

BETTER BUILDING MORE FUN

Did you know...

...that 2005 is the 50th anniversary of the LEGO brick?
Here are some other Fun Facts you can share with your friends to prove that you're the ultimate LEGO expert!

- Sixteen billion LEGO bricks are molded every year – that's 2 million an hour, or 33,000 bricks every minute!
- Each year the LEGO Company produces 110 million 1x2 bricks – enough to build a two-brick high wall from LEGOLAND Park in Carlsbad, California all the way to Dallas, Texas!
- Two eight-stud LEGO bricks can be combined in 24 different ways.
Three eight-stud LEGO bricks can be combined in 1,060 different ways.
Six eight-stud LEGO bricks can be combined in 102,981,500 different ways!
Toss in six more bricks – the building possibilities become mind-boggling!
- 208 million LEGO sets are packed each year – enough to fill a football field from end zone to end zone!
- More than 203 billion LEGO elements have been molded since 1949, in more than 11,000 different shapes and 106 different colors!
- More than 3.7 billion LEGO mini-figures have been produced since 1978, making them one of the world's largest populations!
- The LEGO Company is the world's biggest manufacturer of vehicle tires – producing over 311 million each year!

Brick Bots!

The first LEGO® space sets blasted off toy store shelves in 1979. Since then, robots and other space age contraptions have been a big part of the LEGO universe. ■

2001
7313 Red Planet Protector
7314 Recon-Mech RP

Rippin' the red planet, Mars needed robots, and these two moveable mechs were the perfect planet protectors.

1998
8719 Robotic Invention System 1.0

A giant leap for robotkind. The LEGO Company introduced the programmable RCX brick. Suddenly robots sprang to life all over the planet! The LEGO robot revolution had begun!

1994
6889 Recon Robot
6949 Robo Guardian

Bots with 'tude. These two take-no-prisoners bots were part of the best-selling LEGO Spyrius Space system.

Bots Outside the Box

You don't have to own a special LEGO set to build a robot that rocks. You can invent an amazing android by combining parts and pieces from lots of different LEGO sets! What will you make?

1987
8852 Robot

Have remote, will travel. This remote-controlled TECHNIC™ robot could transform into a 4-wheeled land rover.

2003
4099 Robotix
4097 Mini Robots

If you build them, they will rule. LEGO Designer Sets included all the parts and pieces to build an army of mechanical men.

2004
4508 Titan XP

The big star! At 11 inches (30 cm) tall, Titan XP towers over all the LEGO bots of the past. This powerhouse has the best possibility of any LEGO robot. He has the moves and he has the charm – that's why he stars in this month's comic!

1984
6951 Robot Command Center

Invasion of the robots! The Spy-bot was one of the first brick bots to have human features.

X-walker Defense Pod

Hidden on the jungle moon of Yavin 4, the Rebel Alliance can't afford to let any parts go to waste. This X-walker Defense Pod was constructed from pieces of X-wing fighters damaged in battles against the Empire. Armed with a pair of long range blasters and an ion cannon, the X-walker stomps through the Yavin jungle on constant look out for Imperial probe droids and other dangers. ■
